

JENNY YOO COLLECTION

MATERNITY / POST PREGNANT BRIDESMAIDS

Maternity/Post Pregnant Bridesmaids

We often have bridesmaids in different stages of their pregnancy ordering dresses. Whether you plan on being pregnant at the time of the wedding or have just delivered and need to get sized for a bridesmaid dress, we have several options available. It is a challenge to estimate what the exact size a bridesmaid will be since the rapid changes and growth vary from person to person. Therefore choosing the right style and size is a very important part of the ordering process. We will do our best to ensure that we order the closest size for any pregnant/post-pregnant client. If a client becomes pregnant and the order has already been processed, Jenny Yoo Collection is not held responsible for remaking a new dress and the client will be charged full price for a new dress. Below are some suggestions in avoiding situations like this.

How to Choose the Appropriate Style for a Pregnant Bridesmaid

There are many dress options that are appropriate for different stages of one's pregnancy. Usually if you are up to 4 months pregnant, a standard bridesmaid dress can be ordered in a larger size to match the rest of the bridal party. Empire waist styles are the best alternative though. If you plan on being more than 5-6 months pregnant, we highly recommend choosing one of our maternity styles since they allow for more room through the belly. Please also keep in mind that bust sizes will increase during the pregnancy and should be considered when ordering the appropriate size. Remember, it is much easier to take in a dress than to let it out.

For Bridesmaids that are Planning on Becoming Pregnant

If you are a bridesmaid currently not pregnant but plan on being pregnant at the time of the wedding please let us know. We will be happy to work with you and recommend the best option for you.

1. Estimate a size and style at the time the group orders so a complete party order is submitted.
2. Submit an individual order at a later time. Individual orders placed after the group have no guarantee of being cut from the same dye lot and include applicable rush fees. Once an order has been submitted it is final sale. No changes can be made to an order once it has been sent into production. For help finding appropriate sizing please see our sizing chart or speak with us directly.

Pregnant Bridesmaids

If you know you are pregnant, you must consider what stage of your pregnancy you will be in at the time of the wedding. If you will be more than 6 months pregnant, we highly recommend you choose one of our maternity styles. If you will be less than 5 months pregnant, you can get away with ordering up a few sizes from what you are currently wearing in our bridesmaid dresses. Regardless of the stage of pregnancy you are in, empire waist styles will be the most flattering silhouette.

Post Pregnant Bridesmaids

In selecting a proper size for post pregnant bridesmaids, we must consider whether or not the bridesmaid is nursing as bust size increases greatly during this stage. We can give you the following options:

1. You can estimate and order the dress a couple sizes larger than what you are wearing and have the dress altered upon receiving it.
2. You can submit an individual dress order at a later time but we cannot guarantee the dye-lot will be the same as the rest of the bridal party. The quantity discount will also not be applicable because it will be considered as a separate order. The appropriate rush fees will be added to the cost of the dress if the order is placed within 12 weeks of the wedding date.
